A NEW UNIVERSITY IN ARGENTINA

The Universidad Nacional de Hurlingham [National University of Hurlingham, (UNAHUR)] was created in December 2014 and started operating in 2016 with the aim of contributing to local and national development through the production and equitable distribution of knowledge and scientific-technological innovations.

It was born during the creation of new national universities as a public policy under the expansion of the university system between 2007 and 2015, particularly in the metropolitan area of Buenos Aires.

Our academic offer is structured in four Institutes: Education, Technology and Engineering, Community Health and Biotechnology.

In this light, we welcome those who wish to live a human, intercultural and academic experience; we trust that it will leave an enriching mark on our international students.
